WILSON'S MEXICAN MESSAGE

THE ENTIRE SITUATION SUBMITTED TO CONGRESS.

While Congress Deliberates Fighting Begins. 4 Americans Killed and 21 Wounded.

President Wilson on Monday, April 20th, presented in person a message to Congress on Mexican situation, saying:

"It is my duty to call your attention to a situation which has arisen in our dealings with General Victoriano Huerta, at Mexico City which calls for action, and to ask your advice and cooperation in acting upon it.

"On the ninth of April a paymaster of the United States Ship Dolphin landed at Iturbide bridge landing at Tampico with a whale boat and boat's crew to take off certain supplies needed by his ship and while engaged in loading the boat was arrested by an officer and squad of men of the army of General Huerta.

"Neither the paymaster nor any one of the boat's crew was armed. Two of the men were in the boat when the arrest took place and were obliged to leave it and submit to be taken into custody, notwithstanding the fact that the boat carried, both at her bow and at her stern, the flag of the United States.

"The officer who made the arrest was proceeding up one of the streets of the town with his prisoners when met by an officer of higher authority who ordered him to return to the landing and await orders and within an hour and a half from the time of the arrest orders were received from the commander of the Huertista forces at Tampico for the release of the paymaster and his men.

DEMANDING THE SALUTE OF FLAG.

"The release was followed by apologies from the commander and later by an expression of regret by General Huerta himself. General Huerta urged that martial law obtained at the time at Tampico; that orders had been issued that no one should be allowed to land at the Iturbide bridge; and that our sailors had no right to land there. Our naval commander at the port had not been notified of any such prohibition, and, even if they had been, the only justifiable course open to the local authorities would have been to request the paymaster and his crew to withdraw and to lodge a protest with commanding officer of the fleet. Admiral Mayo regarded the arrest as so serious an affront that he was not satisfied with the apologies offered but demanded that the flag of the United States be saluted with special ceremony by the military commander of the port.

TWO ARRESTED ON BOAT.

"The incident cannot be regarded as a trivial one, especially as two of the men arrested were taken from the boat itself—that is to say, from the territory of the United States; but had it stood by itself, it might have been attributed to the ignorance or arrogance of a single officer. Unfortunately, it was not an isolated case. A series of incidents have recently occurred which cannot but create the impression that the representatives of General Huerta were willing to go out of their way to show disregard for the dignity and rights of this government and felt perfectly safe in doing what they pleased, making free to show in many ways their irritation and contempt.

"A few days after the incident at Tampico an orderly from the U. S. S. Minnesota was arrested at Vera Cruz while ashore in uniform to obtain the ship's mail and was for a time thrown into jail. An official dispatch from this government to its embassy at Mexico City was withheld by the authorities of the telegraphic service until peremptorily demanded by our Charge d' Affaires in person. So far as I can learn, such wrongs and annoyances have been suffered to occur only against representatives of the United States. I have heard of no complaints from other governments of similar treatment. Subsequent explanations and formal apologies did not and could not alter the popular impression which it is possible it had been the object of the Huertistas authorities to create, that the government of the United States was being singled out and might be singled out with impunity, for slights and affronts in retaliation for its refusal to recognize the pretensions of General Huerta to be regarded as the constitutional provisional president of the republic of Mexico.

DANGER OF THE SITUATION.

"That manifest danger in such a situation was that such incidents might grow from bad to worse until something happened of so gross and intolerable a sort as to lead directly and inevitably to armed conflict. It was necessary that the apologies of General Huerta and his representatives should be such as to attract the attention of the whole population to their significance, and such as to impress upon General Huerta himself the necessity of seeing to it that no further occasion for explanations and professed regrets should arise. I, therefore, felt it my duty to sustain Admiral Mayo in the whole of his demand and to insist that the flag of the United States should be saluted in such a way as to indicate a new spirit and attitude on the part of the Huertistas.

"Such a salute General Huerta has refused, and I have come to ask your approval and support in the course I [illegible] This government can, I earnestly hope, in no circumstances be forced into war with the people of Mexico.

FIGHTING ONLY GEN. HUERTA.

"Mexico is torn by civil strife. If we are to accept the tests of its own constitution, it has no government. General Huerta has set his power up in the City of Mexico, such as it is, without right and by methods for which there can be no justification. Only part of the country is under his control. If armed conflict should unhappily come as a result of his attitude of personal resentment towards this government, we should be fighting only General Huerta and those who adhere to him and give him their support and our object would be only to restore to the people of the distracted republic the opportunity to set up again their own laws and their own government.

WAR NOT NOW IN QUESTION.

"But I earnestly hope that war is not now in question. I believe that I speak for the American people when I say that we do not desire to control in any degree the affairs of our sister republic. Our feeling for the people of Mexico is one of deep and genuine friendship and everything that we have so far done or refrained from doing has proceeded from our desire to help them, not to hinder or embarress them. We would not wish even to exercise the good offices of friendship without their welcome and consent. The people of Mexico are entitled to settle their own domestic affairs in their own way, and we sincerely desire to respect their right. The present situation need have none of the grave complications of interference if we deal with it promptly, firmly and wisely.

No doubt I could do what is necessary in the circumstances to enforce respect for our government without recourse to the Congress and yet not exceed my constitutional powers as President; but I do not wish to act in a matter possibly of so grave a consequence except in close conference and co-operation with both the Senate and House.

ASKS APPROVAL OF CONGRESS.

"I, therefore, come to ask your approval that I should use the armed forces of the United States in such way and to such an extent as may be necessary to obtain from General Huerta and his adherents the fullest recognition of the rights and dignity of the United States, even amidst the distressing conditions now unhappily obtaining in Mexico.

"There can in what we do be no thought of aggression or of selfish aggrandizement. We seek to maintain the dignity and authority of the United States only because we wish always to keep our great influence unimpaired for the uses of liberty, both in the United States and wherever else it may be employed for the benefit of mankind."

By a vote of 337 to 37 the House adopted the following resolution on Monday night:

"The President of the United States is justified in the employment of the armed forces of the United States to enforce the demands upon Victoriano Huerta for unequivocal amends to the Government of the United States for affronts and indignities committed against this Government by General Huerta and his representatives."

The oppostition vote was not on question of sustaining the President, but to the wording of resolution.

The Senate debated the resolution on Tuesday and a substitute reading:

In view of the facts presented by the President of the United States in his address delivered to Congress in joint session on the 20th day of April, 1914, in regard to certain affronts and indignities committed against the United States in Mexico, be it

Resolved, That the President is justified in the employment of the armed forces of the United States to enforce his demands for unequivocal amends for the affronts and indignities committed against the United States; be it further

Resolved, That the United States disclaims any hostility to the Mexican people or any purpose to make war upon them.

The Senate Substitute was the resolution adopted by both Houses on Wednesday and signed by President Wilson.

The first fighting took place on Tuesday when American [illegible] at the custom house at Vera Cruz to prevent a big shipment of arms [illegible] and ammunition from being carried in a German ship from getting into Huerta's hands. The Mexicans fired first on the Americans, to be shelled by guns from one of the U. S. vessels. Four Americans were killed, 20 injured and [illegible] reported killed.

Bob White Caught.

Chief of Police Emmons received a telegram on Tuesday that Robert White had been arrested in Chicago and prisoner was willing to come back to Gettysburg without extradition papers. Directions were sent to hold White until officers could go after him. The only charge so far preferred against White is the larceny of $25 worth of tools from C. S. Reaser. The automobile transaction is not such as to place him within the reach of the criminal law. The Marathon car White bought of D. B. Lau of Hanover and gave a note with C. S. Reaser as security was recovered in Philadelphia where White had sold it for $300 and this sum had to be paid to get it back. After car was recovered no trace of White could be found until telegram was received telling of his capture in Chicago.

Hundreds of letters were sent to all parts of the country by Chief of Police Emmons and County Detective Wilson and one sent to Chicago by the former did the work. White had his picture taken while here seated in an automobile, it was a small picture two inches square but this picture enlarged was distributed with the letters helped in the identification.

Chief of Police Wallace W. Emmons will go to Chicago next week for Bob White.

Indians Pass Through Gettysburg

Red Fox, White Horse and Three Irons, three Crow Indians, started from the Crow Reservation near Buffalo, Wyoming, to make a trip to Washington, D. C. They are riding outlaw horses from the reservation and the animals at start were rather wild. They started southward from Buffalo to strike the Lincoln Highway at Cheyenne and will follow that highway to Gettysburg and at this place will branch off to Washington. They do not intend to ride on Sunday and expect to make about thirty miles a day and will stop at every large city on the route. They expect to reach the National Capital during the first week in September and will likely strike Gettysburg about September 1.

The three Indians are backed by the Lincoln Highway Association in their trip and expect to make their own expenses by speaking at halls, clubs and picture shows. Red Fox and White Horse are half-blood Crow Indians and Three Irons is a full-blooded Crow Indian. All are highly educated. Three Irons at Carlisle, White Horse at the Haskell Indian School, and Red Fox at a college in Spokane. All speak perfect English.

Among the objects of their trip to the Great Father, is to ask that a day be set aside as a national holiday in memory of the Indian, the native American. A bill is now before Congress providing for such a holiday. Red Fox bears a letter from Gov. Stewart of Montana to President Wilson. Three Irons carries a special message to President [illegible] Coos, head chief of the Crows. After visiting Washington they will go to New York City to ask the [illegible] officials to [illegible] of this organization [illegible] They will stock on these [illegible] the route and also the [illegible] roads.

The Late Fr. Kohl's Estate.

The appraisement of the personal effects of the late Father Hermann Kohl, of Conewago Chapel, has been made. One thousand dollars is bequeathed to the lady who has been housekeeper for the past 25 years. $200 is given to the little orphan girl who lived with her, and the rest of the estate is left to the Paradise Protectory. The personal effects at Conewago were bequeathed to the successor who has not as yet been named. Father Hutter, of Hanover, is named as executor.

$1.00 Excursion to Baltimore.

Starts from Fairfield at 6.45 a. m., Gettysburg 7.15, New Oxford 7.47, and Hanover 7.59. Trolley from Littlestown will connect. [illegible]

The I. O. O. F Minstrals.

The I. O. O. F. Minstrels gave a show in Waller's Theatre last Friday evening and the house was one big grin from start to finish with ha has and whoop las, specially when Brady wouldn't be quiet. The jokes were all there in their original Adams county glory, except Brady's and they had a bark all Brady's own and all gave the house a movement with a meaning all their own. They all looked to the manor born, particularly Brady's. They all did the things so well that it was difficult to tell it was not the real thing except Brady and he looked more real than otherwise. They brought back the halcyon days when the first local minstrels struck the 'burg. Good gracious, two of the stars of those days, C. B. Tate and C. K. Little brushed up their sparkle so that the lustre looked old timy and they worked overtime to keep P. S. Tate and B. M. Sefton from capturing their sparkle and specially Brady worked himself into a frazzle and brain storm to place the old time laurels upon his ebony brow. The parts taken were as follows: C. K. Gilbert, Interlocutor; C. B. Tate, End; P. S. Tate, End; C. K. Little, End; B. M. Sefton, End; Chorus J. C. Wierman, R. E. Zinn, R. H. Bushman, W. E. Ziegler, C. Benson, A. B. Plank, A. Z. Rogers, G. E. Miller, M. E. Baker, I. N. Ziegler, F. M. Garlach, C. R. Rupp.

Rev. C. G. White's Illness.

"[illegible] article in Friday's 'North American' concerning me is a gross [illegible] It was evidently evolved [illegible] imagination of some irresponsible [illegible] who attempts to gratify the sensationalism [illegible] at the expense of truth and common sense. There is absolutely [illegible] in his statement. It is too [illegible] to think of and I am surprised [illegible] any paper would publish such [illegible] without first making an investigation as to the truth of it.

"I have an ordinary vascular tumor on the pelvic bone. When Dr. J. C. Bloodgood, of Baltimore, operated on Jan. 16, he decided that absorption was better than surgery. He advised radium treatment. On Jan. 20 in Dr. Howard A. Kelly's sanatorium radium was laid upon the surface of my abdomen, over the tumor, for eleven and one-fourth hours. This treatment of radium has reduced the tumor to about one-fourth its former size. On March 6 I received another treatment for five and one-half hours. When the results of this second treatment are known I believe that there will be little or nothing left of the tumor.

"The doctor has not allowed me to do any work as yet, but I am [illegible]

NEW DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY

Our representatives wear this badge.

The publishers of the old reliable FARM JOURNAL of Philadelphia, are preparing to publish the Illustrated DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY, giving the name, post-office, rural route, and telephone connection of every farmer, business man, and householder in the county, all arranged alphabetically, and a classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY, including all business houses in the county, arranged under the proper headings.

With the Directory is given a complete ROAD MAP of the county, with every road NUMBERED to show the exact location of each farm, as given in the Directory.

This Directory will contain many interesting PICTURES of well-known farmers and business men of the county, fine farms, thoroughbred stock, churches and public institutions, schools and pupils, etc.

The names and necessary information are being secured by PERSONAL CANVASS of all houses and business places, and of the 3752 farms in the county. This Directory and Road Map are so useful and interesting that from our experience in other counties we can guarantee that the Directory will go into at least TWO THOUSAND HOMES OF ADAMS COUNTY, where it will be constantly used by farmers and business men for the next five years.

The Farm Journal Directories are an immense improvement over directories, containing what most publications do not give. Beside all the usual formation, they give the names, addresses, telephone connection, and other important information about FARMERS, secured by PERSONAL CANVASS from each farmer himself. This canvass of country districts is so costly that most directory publishers cannot afford to make it, and ordinary lists of farmers published are in nearly all cases merely copied from official lists.

The classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY includes every business house in the county, whether in city or country. In other directories the names of houses in cities and large towns only are given.

If you are not sure that correct information about your farm or business has been given to one of our canvassers, please send it direct to our main office.

DEATH OF MRS. ADAMS

MARGARET P. SELLERS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Sellers, of New Oxford, died at their home, April 10, aged 14 years, 8 months and 7 days. She has not been in robust health for some time but had only been confined to bed for the past week. Funeral on Sunday, interment in New Oxford Cemetery.

MRS. MANTILLA SMYSER, widow of the late Wm. Smyser, died on Sunday at Dillsburg, in her 82nd year. She leaves two daughters. She was a Miss Bowman and is survived by two brothers, a step-brother and four step sisters, among the latter, Mrs. Lydia Miller of Sell's Station.

New R. R. Schedule.

By the new W. M. R. R. schedule trains leave Gettysburg for Baltimore at 4.40 a. m., 2.10 p. m., for York at at 8.46 a. m. and 5.38 p. m. Trains from Baltimore arrive at 10.22 a. m. and 9 p. m., and from York at 11.10 a. m. and 5.38 p. m. The W. M. R. R. puts one over the P. & R. R. Instead of being compelled to have sleep rudely broken to catch the morning train for Harrisburg, one will have to stay up all night to catch train for Baltimore. Gettysburg attracts more people than any other place of its size on the globe and why railroads discriminate against the town to make it difficult to get here and get away is one of the mysteries of railroad schedules.

PUBLIC SALE.

OF HIGH GRADE MILKING SHORT HORNS.

ON THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1914, the undersigned will sell on the D. P. Forney farm one mile south-west of Hanover, along the Frederick Division of the N. C. R. R. the following live stock: 24 head of milking short horns, 12 cows, 4 will be fresh by day of sale, the rest during the summer and fall, 7 of these cows are carrying their third or fourth calves. Their sire was a registered bull whose dam had a record of 9,000 lbs. milk in one year. These cows are all heavy milkers and are with calf to a registered bull whose dam had a record of 10,000 lbs. milk in one year as a two-year-old; 3 heifers 2 years old, will be fresh in the fall. These heifers are 1-2 to 3-4 pure breeding; 7 heifers that are 6 and 8 months old. They were all sired by a registered bull and out of deep milking cows. One bull, "Major Clay," that is 2 years old. His sire, "Village King," was a son of "Cyrus Clay," the greatest show bull of his breed to-day; "Daisy Clay" his dam, is out of "Lucy F" with a record of 10,000 lbs. of milk in one year; bull calf 10 weeks old, son of "Daisy Clay," sired by "Glenmore" whose dam had a record of 10,000 lbs. as a 2-year-old.

Hanover, Pa., April 2, '14.

Mr. Geo. M. Forney,
Hanover, Pa.

Dear Sir:—The two milking short horn cows I bought from you last spring are doing excellently. They are good, heavy milkers, and aside from being profitable it is a pleasure to see such fine looking cows as these on the yard.

Yours truly,
C. N. MYERS.

Sale to commence at 1 o'clock p. m. Terms—A credit of 10 months will be given to purchasers giving their notes with approved security; 4 per cent. off for cash.

DRY : GOODS DEPARTMENT : STORE

During this Month of April

There will be Plenty of Business

For all Stores that are Fixed for It

The question is---

"Where can I find what I want?"

"Where will I likely get best value for my money?"

"Where will I have best selection?"

The store that for over a quarter of a century --think of the time--has always endeavored to give "WEAVER'S" as the answer to these questions has planned--and is now stocked as never before to fill these requirements.

No matter whether it be an expensive or popular priced article we have always insisted that it should have value, that is--give money's worth; and because of that and the service we give, we have made this a business of unusual amount for towns the size of Gettysburg.

Anything you see advertised elsewhere in the Dry Goods, Carpets or Ladies Ready-to-wear line--try us first--we will not only have it, but will probably save you money on its purchase. Besides you do not buy a pig in a poke, and further-- if you think you have gotten the wrong thing after you get home--we cheerfully take it back.

NEW DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY

Our representatives wear this badge.

The publishers of the old reliable FARM JOURNAL of Philadelphia, are preparing to publish the illustrated DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY, giving the name, post-office, rural route, and telephone connection of every farmer, business man, and householder in the county, all arranged alphabetically, and a classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY, including all business houses in the county, arranged under the proper headings.

With the Directory is given a complete ROAD MAP of the county, with every road NUMBERED to show the exact location of each farm, as given in the Directory.

This Directory will contain many interesting PICTURES of well-known farmers and business men of the county, fine farms, thoroughbred stock, churches and public institutions, schools and pupils, etc.

The names and necessary information are being secured by PERSONAL CANVASS of all houses and business places, and of the 3752 farms in the county. This Directory and Road Map are so useful and interesting that from our experience in other counties we can guarantee that the Directory will go into at least TWO THOUSAND HOMES OF ADAMS COUNTY, where it will be constantly used by farmers and business men for the next five years.

The Farm Journal Directories are an immense improvement over directories, containing what most publications do not give. Beside all the usual formation, they give the names, addresses, telephone connection, and other important information about FARMERS, secured by PERSONAL CANVASS from each farmer himself. This canvass of country districts is so costly that most directory publishers cannot afford to make it, and ordinary lists of farmers published are in nearly all cases merely copied from official lists.

The classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY includes every business house in the county, whether in city or country. In other directories the names of houses in cities and large towns only are given.

If you are not sure that correct information about your farm or business has been given to one of our canvassers, please send it direct to our main office.

Panama Canal Toll Rates.

Every friend of international goodwill and everyone who desires to see the honor of this country sustained will rejoice over the remarkable victory which the President has achieved in the House of Representatives. It is of special significance because it shows at last that our country can at times rise to the height of considering questions from their moral and ethical bearing. It also shows that the United States can be a gentleman. With the majority far exceeding the expectations of the most sanguine, the Sims' bill for the repeal of the previous action of Congress exempting American ships from tolls in the Panama Canal was passed by a majority of eighty-five. The bill now goes to the Senate, and it is there that the great and long discussion will come. The present outlook is favorable to the passage of the bill, but the number of those who have committed themselves definitely to it in the Senate does not greatly exceed those who are against it. No doubt the splendid victory in the House will tend to convert some hesitating Senators to the President's side, and yet it is no time to lie down or to rest on indications of victory, for the Senate is a very uncertain quantity on all international questions. The passage of Mr. Taft's arbitration treaties by a large majority was confidently predicted up to the day of their defeat. Now is the time for everyone who wants to see his nation retain its high place in the leadership of the world toward the new order of justice and international friendship to use every effort in persuading the Senators to stand by the President in the high course which he is taking. Those who oppose the passage of the repeal in the Senate can be classed in three groups. First there are those who, under the leadership of Senator O'Gorman and Senator Chamberlain, habitually oppose all movements looking toward arbitration or the settling of disputes between nations on the basis of justice, and who especially oppose all legislation which in any way tends to bind this country in more friendly relationship to Great Britain. Their hatred of Great Britain has become such an obsession that it sometimes seems as if they would rather see their own country dishonored than to have her honor saved by any co-operation with England looking toward international arbitration or peace. This is all the more striking at present because the Irish leaders in Parliament are, we understand, greatly disturbed at the attitude of these Senators at just this time, inasmuch as England is standing by Ireland and, at great risk of civil war, procuring for her home rule. It is just the one time in all history when those who love Ireland should strive to keep the friendliest relationship with England. The second group are those who are opposing repeal because they have been influenced by the great commercial interests on the Pacific coast. The third group are the jingoes, those who cry America "first, last and all the time," without any consideration whether her cause is just or whether she is in the right. Unfortunately, this group, while it has been diminishing rapidly both in the House and in the Senate during the past ten years, is still strong. They have not yet reached that point where they can see that the greatness of a nation is in its desire for justice above all things and in its capacity to lead the other nations of the world, not because it is strong, but because it is admired for its sense of honor and justice. These three groups are going to put up a very strong fight against repeal. We do not believe that they will be able to win against the President and against those Senators who have the same high moral sense that he has, and who desire above all things else to set their nation right in the eyes of the world. We believe that the American people on the whole are with the President and his supporters. We have followed the opposition throughout the nation as closely as we have followed that in Congress, and we have noted that it has come largely from the same sort of groups as those to which we have just referred. Almost all the opposition has come from Irish societies, whose arguments are based, not on the justice of the cause, but on personal feelings: and from that jingo press which is always on the narrow, reactionary, jingoistic side of international affairs. The papers which have been defaming the President during these last two week for his action are the same papers which are yelling for war with Mexico and which opposed Mr. Taft's arbitration treaties, and which are always fermenting strife. While there are one or two exceptions, this fact is very noticeable. Almost without exception the papers of the land noted for their high standards of morality and ethics are on the right side of this question. It is purely a moral question; there is no politics in it; there should be no party in it. We made a treaty; most Americans and all Europeans think that we broke it when we exempted American shipping. It could have been arbitrated, but the President is so good a Christian, has such faith in the ultimate possibilities of his nation acting in a Christian way that he simply said, "It is unnecessary to go to the expense and trouble of arbitration. Let us, when we have made a mistake or done an act which the rest of the world thinks a breach of faith, retract it, as would any gentleman."

If this repeal passes the Senate, as it has the House, it will lift America in the eyes of all the world to a height which she has never yet occupied. All Europe will acclaim her great: all Europe will hereafter listen to her every word on arbitration and the new order between nations with a consideration that they never yet have given her utterances.—The Christian Work.

Chester County Experiences.

The little pamplet entitled "Chester County No-Lisence Campaign" shows very plainly the increase of prosperity that accompanies the closing of saloons. The result of one year in Coatesville is a decrease of 54 per cent. in accidents at the big steel mills and decrease of 80 per cent. in absence from work on Mondays, or days following pay days. In the savings departments of the town's three financial institutions the deposits have increased $237,000 over the same period last year.

In West Chester, where three of its six licenses were eliminated, the cost of maintaining the drunks and disorderly prisoners has been $10.05 as against $37.35 paid during the same months last year.

In Kennett Square the books of the Burgess show 50 per. cent. fewer cases to appear before him for the six months of no-license than for the last six months of the open bar. The citizens (43 in number) are about erecting a temperance hotel and a property has been purchased at a cost of $17,000. When finished it will be a four-story building with up-to-date equipments.

The borough of Oxford holds two fairs, one in the spring and one in the fall. In the days of license four special policemen were brought from Philadelphia to keep order: last fall there were no special officers and no disorder.

In Aiglen when the constable went to put a man in the lockup in July, the first since the closing of the saloons in March, he found the weeds in front of the door had grown as high as the knob, and the spiders had woven a web over the keyhole.

How to Reduce Infant Mortality.

What New Zealand has done in reducing the infant mortality rate was brought to the attention of Secretary of Labor Wilson in a letter by Miss Julia C. Lathrop, head of the Federal Children's Bureau, with a view to stimulating interest in the work of baby saving in the United States. According to Miss Lathrop New Zealand has the lowest infant mortality rate of any country in the world and this has been brought about mainly through the efforts of the New Zeland Society for the Health of Women and Children. She is confident that similar results could be accomplished in this country. In one city alone—Dunedin—the work of the society reduced the infant mortality rate fifty per cent. in five years, from 1907 to 1912.

Miss Lathrop urges that not only in cities, but in country districts provision should be made for instructing mothers in the care of babies: teaching young girls all practical methods of home-making, including baby hygiene and feeding; giving proper hospital care to sick babies and maintaining conferences where any bad condition before it has progressed beyond recovery. She also advocates co-operation between volunteers and public health authorities in reducing the infant mortality.

ARENDTSVILLE.

Our little town has 13 automobiles. Price of Eggs in this place, 17c; Lard, 12c; butter, 30c; potatoes, 75c; corn, 80c; hay, $14.00 per ton.

Miss Vida Koser who spent the winter in Mechanicsburg, is spending her vacation in the home of her parents, Rev. D. T. and Mrs Koser in this place.

Miss Edna Hartman of this place is tending the Lancaster Business College.

Geo. Rosenburg who spent the last four years in the home of Dr. Wm. E. Wolff, has gone to Gettysburg where he secured work in the Furniture Factory.

Several days ago Wm. H. Crum in this place, caught a blue homer pigeon in his flock. It has a band on one of its legs stamped C. B. 45258.

Milton E. Hartman, near this place has been confined to his bed the last several weeks with illness.

Owing to the heavy rain we had last Wednesday, plowing and garden making was stopped again.

Athletics to be Pennant Winners.

The Athletics have been picked as winners of the pennant of 1914 by Geo. M. Young, prominent baseball newspaper man. In reviewing the situation he says:

He [illegible] predictions have [illegible] amount to much. If you guess how the clubs finish, it is luck, for the race is a long one and the team that looks like a winner in the spring is in the ruck when the stretch is reached. It is the uncertainty of baseball that makes it the greatest of sports. You cannot "dope" it out with any degree of certainty for the reason that there are too many conditions to figure, and this season's races appear more uncertain than any one of several previous years.

One reason for picking the Athletics to repeat is that they enter the race stronger than last year when they won "under wraps" after a bad start, and no other team in the American League appears to have been strengthened. Cleveland was the Mackmen's closest rival last year, and hung on until late in the season, when the Athletics shook the Naps off and won easily. The Athletics captured the American League pennant in 1911 and finished third to Boston and Washington in 1912 when they were picked to repeat. In 1913 Connie Mack started the season with a pitching staff that appeared unfit to keep the team in the first division, while the Red Sox looked to have the race packed away. But Mack "upset the dope." With Jack Coombs out of the game and Danny Murphy laid up with a bad knee which prevented him from doing more than "pinch hit" duty, Connie used two, three and sometimes four pitchers in a single game, and by keeping his players "everlastingly at it" the lean leader outlasted and outgamed the Naps, and had enough left to check Washington's rush at the finish. Late in the season he obtained Rob Shawkey from Baltimore, and while the team was finishing the race he groomed Joe Bush so carefully that when it came to the world's series with the Giants, "Bullet Joe" jumped in and helped Bender and Plank win the blue ribbon event.

If Connie could do this last year with a weak pitching staff, he should be able to repeat with the help of a couple more pitchers. Bender, Plank, and Brown form the foundation of his pitching department. While it is true that Bender and Plank have been a long time in harness, there was nothing to indicate during the closing days of 1913 that they were "all in." and the veterans are expected to deliver at least one more good season. Bush and Brown should be better than last year and Connie has Wyckoff, Houck, Shawkey, Pennock and Durning with a possible chance of Coombs recovering enough strength to permit him to help out when necessary.

In addition to this bunch of twirlers, whose ability he knows, Mack has seven recruit pitchers with his Yanigan team. It is not expected that he will keep more than one or two of these, but this will not be known for some time. Boardman and Bressler appear to be the most promising of the lot, and have shown enough to warrant them being given a place if any of the others fail to come up to form. It is up to Showkey, Houck, Pennock and Durning to keep Boardman and Bressler off the team, so that with this sextet of youngsters trying for regular jobs, Mack's pitching staff looks much stronger than last year.

So far as the remainder of the team goes there will be no changes and none will be necessary unless some accident befalls one of the regulars. Even then Mack is better prepared to meet emergencies this year with the substitute players he has on the roll. It is settled that Orr and Kopf will be the utility infielders, as Mack has been grooming the former at short and second, while Kopf has been substituting for Baker when the "home run king" was out of the game. Both youngsters appear to be "ripe" for the big ring.

The Athletics are well fortified behind the bat, with Jack Lapp, Wally Schang and the new captain, Ira Thomas, who can don the mask and mitt when needed. In addition, Mack has a youngster named McAvoy who is virtually certain of being chosen for the "bench duty" in order to learn the game as the Mackmen play it in the championship season, and Sturgis, the Bucknell catcher. The latter needs experience and will probably be placed with a minor team for development.

The outfield will have Oldring, Strunk and Eddie Murphy in their regular positions. Of the four extra outfielders Mack may carry two, and it looks as if Pete Daley, on account of the experience he has had, and "Shag" Thompson, the North Carolina College recruit, who is reported to possess the qualities of a star, will be the choice over Wilie and Brickley. Until Thompson joined the team, Wilie appeared to have the other extra men beaten for the job, and it may be that he will win out yet, for he has shown up strongly in spring practice.

With this combination in the field, it is difficult to see why the Athletics' chances are not stronger and brighter than they were last year, and for this reason they are picked to repeat. Washington should be the dangerous competitor, with Cleveland third.

WHAT WE SAY WE DO, WE DO DO. $5 SPRAYERS $3. $3. $3.

THREE DOLLARS THEY WILL GO FOR

Full particulars about this CUT PRICE.

We do not want to carry any Sprayers over till next season, so we offer to ship to anybody who wants a good Sprayer for the poultry house or for the garden for $3.00 at this time of year, (the hens will soon pay for the sprayer.)

You do not have to pump air in these sprayers, they work automatically and easily untill the very last drop in the tank is consumed. No stopping to pump air or anything else, as you have to with other sprayers.

Send for our large descriptive circular about the Lenox Sprayer and the cut price of them at this time of year, it will open up your eyes. Write to us to-day, put a string around your finger, them you won't forget it.

After you get one, you may want the agency for your town. If you have a trusty hired man, or a smart ambitious boy and a horse and buggy, one should be sold at every farm-house, and if there is any starch in the seller, he will sell. For any one with an acre and a half now days, must have a sprayer.

4th Class Postmaster Examination.

An examination for fourth class postmasters at twelve points in the county was held on last Saturday in the High School Building in Gettysburg. The examination was conducted by F. M. Bream and Geo. P. Black of the Gettysburg Post Office force. The fourth class postmasters include all those whose salaries are over $180 a year and under $1600.

Twenty applicants took the examination. At a number of points the only one taking the examination was the present postmaster. This was the case at Orrtanna, Virginia Mills, Charmian, Bendersville and Aspers. At several points the present postmasters were not applicants. This was the fact at Cashtown, York Springs, Fairfield and Idaville. There was but one applicant for the Cashtown postoffice. Three for York Springs, two for Fairfield and two for Idaville.

At three points the examination included the present postmasters and others. At East Berlin, one additional At Hunterstown one additional, and at Hampton one additional.

It was possible for examinations to be taken at Hanover for Abbottstown, Hampton and some eastern points and it is said a third party took the examination there for Hampton and for Abbottstown the present postmaster and one additional took examination.

Primary Issues.

The last day for filing petitions for nominations for the primary was Tuesday, April 21, and for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the 20th District of Pennsylvania the following were named: Andrew R. Brodbeck, Harry N. Gitt, Chas. A. Hawkins, Horace Keesey and John H. Myers. It is said Mr. Keesey by statement in "York Gazette" has declined.

Robert C. Bair has been named for the Washington party nomination.

LEGISLATURE.

The Democratic Legislative nomination will be between J. A. Holtzworth and D. Calvin Rudisill.

The Republican nomination will be contested for by Samuel Bream and Chas. J. Deardorff.

PARTY OFFICES.

C. A. Bream, Geo. L. Rice and Joseph A. Weaver have been named for Democratic State Committeeman.

Harvey A. Scott has been named for Republican State Committeeman and Robert C. Miller for Republican County Chairman.

The last day to file petitions for County Committeemen is Tuesday, April 28.

Councilman Baughman's Statement

It was stated by a member of the Town Council at the last meeting of Council that a number of families on High street were not visited in taking the vote on the curb market question; the vote plainly shows that they were all visited and that they all voted for or against the market: this councilman and another member of the council also charged that there was persuasion and undue influence used in taking the vote, to get the sentiment of the people against the market. I emphatically deny those assertions and brand them as willful and deliberate falsehoods and they can be proven as such. I challenge those two councilmen to find one family in the town who will say they were not permitted to vote their own sentiments: both sides of the vote of the borough were taken for and against. As I was on the defensive I was not expected to, at first to present my vote and allow any member of the council to see the result of my canvass, until the other side, who agitated the question and stirred up the people had first presented their vote. Why did not the Editor of the "Star and Sentinel" present his vote and allow the members of the town council to see the result of his canvass? There are several plain, good reasons for him not doing so, which is not only known to him, but to many others; my vote justifies my claim, and it is open for inspection by the town council or any or all the citizens of Gettysburg. The entire proceedings on the part of several persons shows plainly how they will make erroneous assertions, practice injustice and resort to the most extreme measures to get their desired ends accomplished, while some others interested have been rightly accused of wrong practices, I have been vindicated and have received credit for all I have done and I care not for the censure, criticism and erroneous assertions made by , or wrong doing done by those identified on the other side of the question. As long as I remain a member of the Town Council I shall pursue a straightforward course in the future as in the past for the best interests of the citizens and the taxpayers and by doing so if I gain the approval and credit of the people, I care not, for the few unkind and unjust persons who may be against me.

O. G. BAUGHMAN.

Hoffman Orphanage.

The directors of the Hoffman Orphanage met at the Orphange Thursday of last week. Those present were Rev. T. J. Barkley, D.D., President, of Gettysburg; Rev. C. S. Slagle, D.D., Treasurer, Westminster, Md.; Rev. F. S. Lindaman, D.D., Littlestown; Rev. S. H. Stein, York; Rev. A. M. Gluck, Martinsburg, W. Va.; Rev. A. S. Dechant, Hanover; J. S. Gerber, York; O. D. Gilbert, Westminster; G. M. Conover, Littlestown; C. S. Duncan, Gettysburg; Dr. H. M. Hartman, Gettysburg, and Rev. J. Stewart Hartman, Superintendent of the Home.

The grounds are being graded, shade trees planted and work is going forward on the driveway. A wide cement walk from the Administration building to the driveway has been completed. A new porch has been placed in front of the farm house.

Half of the new sanitary cow barn has been completed (except the painting) at a cost of $375, with a capacity for twelve head.

The property at Yorkana, which was given to the Orphanage a few years ago, has been ordered sold.

The treasurer reported that the total Christmas offerings were $3,831.87. Also that he had paid $1,240, principal and interest, on the loans made last year for maintenance. The indebtedness on the property is $7,000.

The summer kitchen at the farm house must be rebuilt, and provision must be made for a laundry. It is proposed to put an addition to the pumping station for this purpose which with equipment will cost $1,500 or $2,000.

There are 26 children in the Home and provisions should be made at once for 30 more. This requires a new cottage, which the Board hopes some one will speedily provide.

The third anniversary will be celebrated on Thursday, July 23rd.

Mad at Paint

25c a gallon for paint is about $2.50 on the average job, and lots of men waited last year for that: but they didn't reckon; they got mad: wouldn't pay it.

There are times to get mad and refuse to pay: but when one's property needs protecting is no time to get mad and not paint.

Besides, it costs more to get mad and wait than to paint.

Getting mad doesn't do any good to your property: paint does it good by keeping out water; no water no rot: no paint, some water and rot: and a little rot is more than enough to make a man liberal towards his painter and paint.

Paint costs not a cent. All the paint in the world, so long as it keeps out water, costs not a cent.

Charles Shover, an employee at Furniture factory was arrested this week and is in jail charged with the larceny of about $14 from George Weikert, a fellow workman. Shover has admitted his guilt.

WHY THEY DO IT

It isn't often that we have faith enough in the medicines put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund money if it does not cure, said Peoples Drug Store to one of their many customers, but we are glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that plan.

"The Dr. Howard Co., in order to get a quick introductory sale authorized us to sell the regular fifty cent bottle of their specific for half price, 25 cents and although we have sold a lot of it, and guaranteed every package, but one has been brought back as unsatisfactory."

We are still selling the specific at half price, although we cannot tell how long we shall be able to do so. Any person who is subject to constipation, sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion or a general played out condition, ought to take advantage of this opportunity. If the specific does not cure them, they can come right back to our store, and we will cheerfully refund their money.

New Market Ordinance.

At a meeting of the Town Council on Tuesday evening, new market ordinance was passed making provisions to rid the market of objectionable features. It is provided that goods must be removed as soon as purchased under penalty of a $10 fine and applicable to truckers or buyers. Engaging goods is forbidden by ordinance of last year and all goods on market must be for sale. The opening hour has been fixed at 4 a. m. and market closes at 9:30. There will be no opening hour, truckers can sell as soon as they arrive in town and have customers. This will avoid confusion of many people trying to sell and buy at opening time as before.

Among applicants for market master were C. O. Myers, C. E. Spangler and Jacob Eckenrode. Chief of Police W. W. Emmons was made market master at $10 additional until the choice of a master has been finally determined.

Baltimore, York, Carlisle and Chambersburg streets will be given a treatment of tarvia, town doing the sanding, at cost of 12 cents per lineal foot. Other streets will be oiled at 6 cents per lineal foot, both to be paid by the property owners.

Big Agricultural Land Opening

TWELVE HUNDRED AND FIFTY TRACTS of five and ten acres each to be granted to prospective settlers in throwing open Twenty Thousand Acres of Rich, Southern Georgia Land, which is admirably adapted to the growing of celery, sweet and Irish potatoes, canteloupes, water melons, corn, oats, cotton, hay—in fact, all staple crops grown in this fertile section, as well as a large variety of semi-tropical fruits, and the famous immensely profitable paper-shell pecans.

Providing you are eligible under the classifications prescribed by us, you are now offered an excellent opportunity to break away from the drudgery and toil of a small wage, or working for the benefit of landlords, and go back to a land of plenty, to which, if granted, you will hold a warranty deed and abstract.

The best security on earth is the earth itself, and land is the basis of all wealth. Owners of productive lands are benefiting by the increasing high cost of living, while others are suffering from it.

An Opportunity to Secure Rich Productive Land Without Capital

You will not be required to leave your present surroundings now. All we ask of those to whom we grant tracts is that they plant, or arrange to have planted, a crop of one of the above-mentioned products within three years, after which we will have it operated (harvested and replanted) for grantees, in consideration of 25 per cent. of the net profits derived from the sale of the crops, thereby allowing the grantee to pursue his or her present occupation until such time as they determine just what the yield of their acres amounts to. Consider what this may mean as a source of income, when statistics show that the yield of one acre of celery amounted to $1,200.00, and that one acre of well-cared-for paper-shell pecans, in full bearing, should net its owner as high as $700.00 per year. We are of the opinion that after it is proven by actual results obtained in operating the land that they will need no further urging, and waste no time in locating in this land of plenty. We also require grantees to occupy the land within ten years, or sell it to some one who will occupy it; otherwise it reverts back to the grantor.

The land included in this opening is located directly on and adjoining the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad, about twenty-five miles west of Brunswick, a thriving city of fifteen thousand, having direct steamship service to New York and Boston, and excellent railroad transportation facilities to all points. The average temperature for six months of the year, from April to October, is 77 degrees; the climate is most healthful, delightful, and invigorating, and there is an ample rainfall of 51 inches per year.

OUR AIM IS FOR MUTUALLY BENEFICIAL RESULTS

As we are extremely desirous of having settlers locate on this property, and assist in its development, and thereby greatly increase the value of surrounding and intervening property, which we will hold, and to increase the traffic along the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad, and thus facilitate the service, we feel warranted in granting these tracts to those who register with us. We also have in mind business and residence plots which we will offer for sale after the opening, but which will not be included in it. We have [illegible] considerations in this liberal-minded section, similar to those of the Northern Pacific and other railroads when they granted their lands, and we expect to benefit thereby, as well as the ones who will receive the tracts.

We have also planned to develop what is designed to be the best equipped, most up-to-date [illegible] commercial farm and orchard in existence. It will contain [illegible] thousand acres and will be included in this opening. All who register and receive tracts will get the benefit of the experiments and scientific methods in vogue thereat. While we are arranging to prevent over-registration, we will avoid many disappointments, such as occurred in other land openings conducted by the United States Government and railroads by granting those who register in excess of the number of tracts to be granted, an interest in this commercial farm and orchard enterprise, in the hope that they may later locate in one of our town sites.

Examination of the land will cheerfully be permitted, and the opening will be held at Browntown, Wayne County, Georgia, one of the stations of the A. B. & A. Railroad, which is located on this property, and will occur as soon after the closing of registrations as arrangements can be made.

The presence of those registered will not be necessary at Browntown on the opening day, unless they wish to attend, for there will be no favoritism shown anyone. It will be conducted by a committee selected for the purpose, and those registered will be notified of what they have been granted, as soon as possible.

With the ever-increasing population of this country there is no corresponding increase in the area of land, and naturally as the population increases and seeks the land in pursuit of health, happiness and independence it will continue to be harder to secure.

The prosperous and contented class in Europe to-day are the descendants of those who secured land there when it was plentiful, while the descendants of those who obtained no land are now the peasants and slaves. You must realize that this may be your last chance to secure land in this country without a large outlay of capital, so it should not be necessary to urge you to act at once by forwarding us the application for registration attached to this announcement.

NEW LIFE AND HOPE

By GEORGE ELMER COBB.

Abel Darrow had two appurtenances that were prominent and peculiar to himself—a wooden leg and a lawsuit. The false limb was old, clumsy and splintery, for he could not afford an artificial one. The lawsuit also was frayed and worn and weak, for the reason, Abel declared, that he did not have the capital to push it to a conclusion.

Abel worked in a bank, and his duties, like himself, were erratic. He had charge of the waste paper department of the institution. That is, every afternoon after banking hours he collected all the waste baskets and placed them in a little store room just as carefully as were the money trays set in the big safety vault of the bank. Through the day, too, he patrolled the institution, picking up every bit or stray paper thrown on the floor or left at the depositors' desks.

"In my time," Abel had often affirmed, "I have found as high as a clean thousand in cash dropped by a careless customer, and the checks and drafts I fish out from the waste paper mean a whole lot to the bank."

For this original occupation Abel received a nominal salary, but was allowed to sell all waste paper to the mills, and this amounted to quite considerable in a year's time.

Abel lived in a garret room of a boarding house kept by a Mrs. Smith. Miss Eva Tracey lived at the same place. She was a stenographer, and through two years almost every day Abel had bowed to her as they met on the stairway or at table. Beyond that, amid his troubles, Abel, in his reticent self centered way he knew her only casually as he knew hundreds of others.

One evening he came to know the pretty maid very much better, however, and it was a bright spot in his dreary life. He came home to find that a defective chimney had scattered sparks on the roof of the house, and this was partly burned off before the flames were extinguished. The floor of the room Abel occupied was covered with cinders and water, and Mrs. Smith told him he would have to sleep on a couch in the library for a night or two until the damage was remedied.

After supper Abel repaired to the parlor to pass the evening. He found a book in a chair and began reading it. He had been thus engaged for a few minutes when Miss Tracey entered the room. He nodded to her, and then, as he observed her looking about from place to place, remarked:

"I think you are looking for a book I picked up, Miss Tracey."

"Only to take it to my room," was the reply. "But I have read it, and you are welcome to the use of it."

That broke the ice. She sat down near to him. The conversation drifted on pleasantly. If Abel Darrow had been more observant, he would have noticed that the young lady seemed eagerly pleased at an opportunity to make his friendly acquaintance. Finally she said:

"I have often wondered what became of the young man who seemed so intimate with you when I first came to the boarding house here."

"You mean Robert Burton?" spoke Mr. Darrow, a shade first gloomy, then sorrowful coming into his expressive face.

"Yes. I—I think that was his name. In fact, I am sure of it. I—I knew him slightly," and Eva flushed deeply.

"I thought him my best friend," explained Abel, and something like a sob choked clear utterance. "I was grossly deceived. I loved him as a father and helped him to his feet when he was penniless and friendless, and—he sold me out."

"Oh, Mr. Darrow!" exclaimed Eva, growing deathly pale. "It cannot be!"

"Did he also deceive you?" he asked bluntly.

"Oh, no—that is—I knew him, we were friends. I learned to esteem him and—he went away so abruptly I—I have often thought of him," fluttered Eva.

"He is unworthy of your thought," persisted Abel. "I'm sorry to say it, but it is true. As you must know, three years ago I lost a limb in a machine while in the service of William Lane & Co. Lane witnessed the accident, and knew that it was due to the carelessness of the firm. He offered me a trifle to settle, which I refused. I brought my suit for $10,000. It is now pending. One evening he came to my room here with a new offer. I laughed at it. Robert Burton heard him. In a trial his evidence might help me. A week later Robert disappeared."

"And you have not heard from him since?" asked Eva anxiously.

"What—what did it say?" pressed Eva eagerly.

"Only these words. 'Stick to the ship!'"

"And that is all?" murmured Eva vaguely.

"No, I must tell you the worst. I positively know that Mr. Lane went west for his health, young Burton went with him as an attendant. Can't you see how it is—the boy I so loved has gone over to the enemy! They have bribed him to remain out of the field as a witness in my behalf."

"I can't understand it at all," sighed Eva. "He was so grateful to you, he was so kind to everybody."

Three evenings later Eva met Abel at the door of the parlor. She drew him within the room. Her eyes were red with weeping, her face colorless and traversed with anguish.

"Read," she said sadly, and handed a newspaper to Abel, pointing to an item on one of its pages.

According to that, William Lane and Robert Burton, traveling in the far west, had started to cross an arid desert stretch and had not been seen since. They were supposed to have miserably perished in a sudden sandstorm that had come up.

"Poor, misguided boy!" sobbed Abel. "If he had only been true to me!"

And in his grief he spoke tender forgiving words that showed that his heart was not hardened. And Eva mingled her tears with his, and Abel knew that this fair young girl had loved Robert Burton.

The blow prostrated Abel. He was not equal to going to work the next day. Eva that evening hastened up to his room with some dainties for the invalid. The tray nearly fell from her hand as entering the apartment she saw—Robert Burton!

Abel was seated in an easy chair, wreathed in smiles. Never had Eva seen him look so bright and happy. Robert, bronzed, brisk, sturdy, interrupted the embarrassed visitor as she tried to retreat.

"What! going without shaking hands with me?" rallied Robert. "You, who have been a comforter and support to my dear old friend, Mr. Darrow?" He relieved her of the tray. He held her hands till they trembled and her cheeks were a lovely carnation pink. "I have come back to give my old benefactor new life and hope, and to say to you—listen, dear, I should have said it the day I left you—I love you."

She stood swaying, overcome, but happy. She dared not look up for fear the glowing joy of that exquisite moment might depart.

"I have brought to our friend a document that will win him his case," explained Robert. "I lured William Lane into the desert purposely. Lost, in deadly peril, I vowed we would die together, but he should right a great wrong. I forced him to a written confession which he dare not gainsay, and—'stick to the ship,' old friend, for you are bound for a sure, safe port."

"With a wedding at the end of it!" cried Abel Darrow enthusiastically. "My boy, it was—my girl, too, now!"

SHOW CHANGE OF THE AGES

Geologists Can Make Exact Determination of Periods Through the Study of Fossils.

Within the last few years, as the work of the United States geological survey has given geologists a larger knowledge of the rocks of the United States, a new sort of geography has sprung up—fossil geography. In this new geography the lands and seas of the remote past are mapped in their true form, and by means of these maps one may follow the development of the American continent and trace its many changes of land and water from age to age. It may seem scarcely possible to map these ancient lands and seas by studying handfuls of fossils taken from the rocks on their sites, but this is what is being done. The geologist can trace these geographic changes by noting the extent of successive formations and the changes in the character of the rocks, but the age and the identity of a geological formation must be determined principally by means of the fossils it contains. The more exact determination of the ages of sedimentary formation—the floors of ancient seas—makes possible, among other things, the correlation from place to place of geographic changes and shows the direction of invasion or retreat of oceanic waters.

Advertising Novelty.

A western retail dealer is securing for himself a measure of publicity quite out of proportion to its cost. This dealer has had all the lamps in his store wired to a switch which can be operated by a push button outside the entrance. Over the button there is a sign reading: "You can see our store by pushing this button." Many of those who pass during the evening hours, yield to their curiosity and push the button, whereupon the entire interior is lighted. The lamps are cut off automatically as soon as the switch is released, and the scheme has caused considerable comment.—Electrical World.

Noxious Birds and Animals.

The office of the Game Commission is almost daily in receipt of inquiries either by letter or otherwise from individuals who have killed some animal or bird classed as "vermin" in this Commonwealth, for the killing of which a reward or bounty is promised by our laws. Many of those making inquiry have fulfilled the requirements of the law preceding the presentation of their request to the County Commissioners for the certificate upon which they are to receive this reward from the County Treasury for the good work done, but in many instances, upon the presentation of these claims they are told by the County Commissioners that the State has neglected to make an appropriation through which the County was to be reimbursed for moneys spent in this way, and that, therefore, the claim could not be recognized, and then under the impression that the Game Commission is in some way responsible for this condition the claimant turns to us for help, and I sometime ago wrote the Attorney General asking for an opinion regarding the liability of counties in this matter, citing the fact that the wording of the Act of July 25th, 1913, P. L. 1036, was identical with the wording of the Act of April 19th 1907, P. L. 60, relating to the payment of bounties, and the further fact that in the case of Brink vs Marsh, 53 Pennsylvania Superior Court, 293, the Court had ruled that the County Commissioners of the several counties of Pennsylvania must pay the bounty as provided by the Act of 1907, whether the State made return to them or not, and asking whether or not the decision in the before mentioned case did not control the situation at this time. I am now in receipt of an opinion from the office of the Attorney General, which among other things contains the following paragraph:

"You are accordingly advised that the several counties of the Commonwealth are legally liable to the persons presenting proper certificates for the payment of the bounties prescribed by the said Act of 1913, and that the counties thus paying said bounties must look to subsequent legislative action for their reimbursements."

The above opinion being very clear, relief is in sight, and I now desire to say to those interested in this matter as claimants for the bounty that the Game Commission has nothing whatever to do with the payment of bounties, not one cent of the money to be paid out as bounties coming to us, but instead is paid direct from the State Treasury to the County Treasurer.

To County officials I desire to say, that I did all in my power to have the last Legislature make an appropriation through which the money spent by counties for the purpose of paying bounties should be returned to them, but was defeated in this effort because, as Members of the Appropriation Committee said, there is not at this time one cent of money in the fund from which this bounty money is to come, and we do not propose to apply funds raised in any way, excepting through the Resident Hunters' License Act, to this purpose. We will be glad to apply the one-half of the money collected under the provisions of the Resident Hunters' License Act when you show us that money is where we can reach it. This fund from which counties are to receive a return of moneys paid out as bounties is rapidly growing, and there is no doubt whatever about a return in due time of moneys paid out by counties for legitimate bounties, but no county will be reimbursed for moneys illegally paid out, and no county will receive a return of moneys they may pay to Justices of the Peace or others as a fee for taking an affidavit to a claim made for bounties. We know the revised Fee Bill of April 23rd, 1909, P. L. 160, in one place provides "Order for premium for wolf, fox, or other scalps, to be paid by County, fifty cents," but contend, this means that the person taking this affidavit shall receive fifty cents for his services in all cases where the county is to pay this bounty, and does not mean that the county shall pay this affidavit fee. The Justice must collect his fee for services from the individuals benefitted, and not from funds belonging to all the people, many of whom are opposed to the payment of bounties, and especially the bounty upon birds. I am in receipt of a letter from the Auditor General's office relating to the claim for fees, and he very pointedly states that there is no authority in law for the payment by the State of an affidavit taken in a private or personal matter that the amounts as fixed by law as counties for the killing of certain animals and birds will be paid, but that nothing above that fixed amount will be paid to anyone.

Under the revised fee bill the Justice of the Peace is entitled to receive a fee of fifty cents for taking an affidavit relating to the "premium for wolf, fox or other scalps" where that premium is to be paid by the County. Under the bounty law the claim made for such premium must have attached thereto an affidavit clearly stating certain facts. The county for killing the goshawk, the sharp-shinned hawk, and the great horned owl is fifty cents, and as the claimant must pay for the affidavit the full sum received, we believe these birds will not be hunted for the purpose of securing this reward, and that because of this condition many of our useful hawks and owls will escape persecution and death at the hands of the man who does not know the difference between the various species of hawks or between the various species of owls in this commonwealth.

Certain of our hawks and certain of our owls in this State are not protected, and to my mind this is all right, because the ill work of these birds is more harmful than beneficial, but the ill-work of the great majority of the hawks and owls found in Pennsylvania is undoubtedly beneficial, and many of these useful birds will be killed if the one doing the killing is to derive a profit through his work, and I am pleased to know that no benefit in dollars or cents can come to those who kill these birds in this Commonwealth. This feature of the bounty law offering a reward fo rthe killing of two species of hawks and one specie of owl should be repealed as quickly as possible.

I desire to call the attention of all the people to the fact that the Act of 1913, relating to bounties, provides that the person collecting or attempting to collect a bounty through fraud or deception in any manner, "or who shall aid or abet, or assist in any capacity, official or otherwise in an attempt to defraud the State, through the collection or payment of any reward or bounty provided for by this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and upon conviction thereof shall, in addition to the penalty that may be imposed for perjury where a false affidavit is made, be sentenced to pay to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania a fine of not less than one hundred dollars or more than five hundred dollars, or suffer an imprisonment in the common jail of the county for a period of one day in jail for each dollar imposed," so that Justices of the Peace are in grave danger if they take an affidavit for bounty upon a bird other than the Goshawk, the Sharp-shinned hawk, and the Great-Horned Owl, and ignorance regarding the identity of species will not excuse the one who secures, or attempts to secure, a bounty on a bird other than the three above mentioned, or to excuse the one who aids or assists in this attempted fraud.

Way to Fight Apple-Tree Borers.

Warfare against the apple-tree borer is a bit more tedious than battling against some other orchard pests, but this insect can be subdued by constant attention of the proper kind, just as any other pest may be fought successfully. In the following letter to a York county fruit grower State Economic Zoologist Surface tells the correct procedure, as he has demonstrated it in his own orchards:

"The first thing is to destroy the borers by injecting into each hole a small jet of the liquid known as bisulfide of carbon. After injecting the liquid close each hole with mud to retain the fumes. There is no need of digging in the wood or injuring the tree by cutting. Keep fire away from this liquid as the fumes are explosive.

"The next step is to prevent other borers from entering. This is done by painting the trunk of the tree with pure white lead and raw linseed oil, or the boiled lime-sulphur solution containing some sediment. The latter must be applied more frequently than the former. One oil painting in a year is sufficient, but the application of a wash or paint should be made for the borers of the apple, pear and quince, by the first of June, and if the lime-sulfur wash is used it should be repeated about the first of each of the following three months. It is not at all expensive to apply either of these preventives.

"Please remember that a further examination of the trees to kill the borers must be made at a later time, and also next spring, because these larvae or grubs live in the trees two years, and you may not be able to get all of them the first time you treat them. I apply the lime-sulfur solution through a spray pump with a very large nozzle opening, and thus can cover a great many trunks in an hour."
